Further Information

Sizing

Large, Medium or Small?

Small Grade are suitable for lining out into nursery beds for summer budding, or grafting the following Winter.

Medium & Large Grades are suitable for bench grafting. If you have large scion wood then Large grade rootstocks will be required. If your scion wood is smallish, then Medium grade should suffice.

Varieties for Home Gardeners

As a general word of advice for the home gardener M9 & M26 are not suitable for your purpose. M9 & M26 are commercial understock varieties. While producing very small trees they also have very weak rootsystems. This means the trees will require permanent support or staking. Both understocks are susceptible to collar rot and woolly aphid.

Varieties such as Northern Spy, M793 and MM111 are recommended for use in home garden situations. All 3 varieties above show very good resistance to Woolly Aphid and Collar Rot.

Varieties for Crab Apples

In our experience with Crab Apples, we suggest that the smaller, dwarfing under stocks should be avoided. We have noted incompatibilities between the stock and scion.

We suggest varieties such as Northern Spy, M793 and MM111 will give you very good results.

For growers who normally use Granny Smith seedling as an under stock, we suggest you use MM111 as an alternative. MM111 will give you moderate dwarfing at 60-75% seedling but also excellent disease resistance compared to GS Seedlings.

NEW OWNERSHIP

As outlined earlier this year, Elisabeth and I will be retiring from business. It is with great pleasure, that we can inform you that Mark Hall & Karen Jones, shall be continuing the Apple Rootstock business. Trading as 'Charteris Road Nursery', Mark and Karen will continue to supply the industry with understock.

Over the next 12 months Mark and Karen will maintain our current stool beds here in Kilsyth, producing a harvest in Winter 2016. After this time the business shall be relocated to their own premises in Wandin, Victoria.

Elisabeth and I will be assisting Mark and Karen over the next 12 months to ensure a smooth transition. In January 2016, we will put out our regular price list & order form for the 2016 Winter.

Should you have any queries, please don't hesitate to call.

Yours Sincerely

Keith & Elisabeth Chandler.
